

Econopolis Emerging Markets Equities Fund

Description of funds

Econopolis Emerging Market Equities is a compartment of Econopolis Funds SICAV, a Luxembourg UCITS fund. The compartment aims to deliver a long term return to investors via investments in equity and monetary instruments that have their principal place of business in emerging markets. International companies which have a substantial business exposure to such emerging markets are also eligible for the compartment.

Manager's comments:

After the stock markets' strong upswing at the end of last year, it was in line with expectations that January would again prove a little more volatile. In terms of investor sentiment, we certainly got 2024 under way from a situation that is the opposite of the one seen in early 2023. While there was a lot of optimism at the time, today there is mostly pessimism towards emerging markets. However, many interest rate cuts in several emerging markets are in the offing, which should buttress the financial markets. Another potential risk that clouded the market, i.e. the fragile geopolitical situation in Taiwan, has also been removed with the January elections resulting in the continuation of the status quo. In China, the authorities announced more incremental stimulus packages such as more flexible lending (still no so-called 'bazooka'), although this obviously does little to change the underlying fundamentals. China is also said to have 278 billion dollars available in an attempt to halt the fall on the stock markets, but in typical Chinese style, details were lacking for now. In India, on the other hand, good news came from the state of Tamil Nadu. There, it was announced that Hyundai Motors and some Apple suppliers are set to invest over USD 4 billion. This is part of many companies' plans to diversify their supply chains to countries other than China, something India is certain to gain from. Finally, some companies already came out with last quarter results such as Anta Sports, Samsung Electronics, TSMC and Infosys. These were mostly in line with expectations.

Risiko-indicator

The risk indicator assumes you keep the product for 5 years. The actual risk may vary significantly if you redeem the product early and you may get back less. The summarised risk indicator is a guide to the risk level of this product compared to other products. It shows how likely the product is to lose money due to movements in the markets or because we are unable to pay you out. We have classified this product as 4 out of 7, which is an average risk class. This classifies potential losses due to future performance at an average level, and poor market conditions may affect our ability to pay you out. Be aware of currency risk. You may receive payments in a currency that differs from your reference currency, so the final return you receive depends on the exchange rate between the two currencies. This risk is not taken into account in the indicator above. The sub-fund is also exposed to the following materially relevant risks not included in the summary risk indicator: Other risk factors may exist. This product does not protect against future market performance. so you may lose all or part of your investment. If we are unable to pay you what you owe, you may lose your entire investment.

Econopolis Emerging Markets Equities Fund

Investment objective:

The sub-fund's objective is to provide long-term capital gains to its shareholders. This objective will be pursued by investing the sub-fund's assets primarily in equities of issuers that have their registered office in emerging markets (i.e. countries included in the MSCI Emerging Markets Index) or that carry out a substantial or growing proportion of their business in emerging markets. The sub-fund must hold at least 90% of its net assets in equities. The sub-fund invests mainly in equity positions that are headquartered and/or listed in emerging markets or have significant exposure to such emerging markets or equivalents of equity positions (e.g. P-notes or other similar instruments that provide equity-like exposure to hard-to-access markets) and cash or cash equivalents. There are no restrictions or limitations on currencies, geographical regions or other specific economic or industry sectors or niches.

Subject to legal restrictions, the sub-fund may invest in derivative financial products, such as futures, options, forward foreign exchange contracts, credit default swaps or interest rate swaps, to achieve its investment objectives and to hedge risks. The sub-fund promotes environmental or social characteristics. This sub-fund is subject to a sustainable investment policy, which can be accessed at <https://www.econopolis.be/en/sustainability>. Additional information on sustainability is available in the fund's prospectus. Benchmark: The portfolio is actively managed on a discretionary basis without reference to a benchmark.
